30. (new) A method of providing an interchangeable fragrant decorative necklace and headband upon the neck or hair of a user configured to be worn either as a necklace and as a hair accessory; comprising the steps of :

providing a decorative continuous necklace and headband piece having an elastic, stretchable continuous cord of elastic material configured to lay snugly around a neck area of a user; providing sufficient elasticity in said elastic, stretchable continuous cord to enable said elastic, stretchable continuous cord to expand over the head of a user and to cling to the head of a user;

providing a pendant having at least one skin contact surface; attaching said pendant to said continuous cord;

providing a thin cover layer member having a fragrance emitting material bonded thereto;

adhering, by pressure sensitive adhesive, said thin cover layer member to said at least one skin contact surface of said pendant, whereby upon contact with skin of the user, said fragrance emitting material reacts with skin oils of the user to mute fragrance emitting from said thin cover layer member;

wrapping said elastic, stretchable continuous cord to the hair of the user;

providing said pendant with a hair clasp having a hinge and latch when said continuous necklace and headband piece is configured to be worn as a hair accessory contacting and wrapped around and/or through the hair of the user to form a desired hair style of the hair of the user; and,

locating said hinge and latch upon said pendant so that said hinge and latch lies flat enough such that it does not protrude beyond said skin contact surface of said pendant having said thin cover layer member having said fragrance emitting material bonded thereto; so as to permit the user's skin to said skin contact surface of said pendant when said continuous necklace and headband piece is configured to be worn as a necklace.
